

THE WEST COAST PLATO WORKSHOP

Third Annual Conference

Topic: Plato's Phaedrus

Date: 22-23 May 2010

Place: Philosophy department, University of California, San Diego

Keynote speaker: Rachana Kamtekar,
Department of Philosophy, University of Arizona

The conference organizer invites proposals for 30 minute talks (to be followed by 45 minutes of commentary or discussion) on any topic related to Plato's Phaedrus. Please send proposals (abstracts) to monte@ucsd.edu by 15 December 2009. Also, please forward this announcement to anyone who might be working on the Phaedrus or interested in attending.

The first conference, on Plato's Theaetetus, was held in 2008 at the University of California, Davis; the second, on the Euthydemus, in 2009 at the University of California, Berkeley. The conferences are open to all students and faculty, and are organized on an ad hoc basis by the host university.

Feel free to contact me with any questions or suggestions. Thank you, and I look forward to seeing in La Jolla next year!
